 Terry Teresita Cataag Bautista This will be an interesting development. More power to candidate Takei! So many more progressives may stand up, yet the system he will need to navigate has flaws and in need of reforms. Voters are not yet fully engaged. Wedges at all levels can help, but this system has not yet reached genuine representation of the people.

Trump could not win. He was just a "distraction" put out there by the "corporate elite" to help slide Hillary into office.

It looks like Russia hired internet trolls to pose as pro-Trump Americans

It's a brand of information warfare, known as "dezinformatsiya," that has been used by the Russians since at least the Cold War.

'As the cataracts of water flowing over the Oroville dam's emergency spillways began to narrow and the threat of wide-scale flooding passed, a sense of normalcy has returned to the Northern California farming town. Most of the 16,000 residents went back to their homes, shops reopened, and officials finally had time to ponder other pressing issues—like, for instance, could the threat of the collapse of America's tallest earthen dam be potential a tourism gold mine?'

Could the Oroville Dam Be the Next Big Tourist Destination?

In the wake of the widely publicized near-collapse of the country's tallest earthen dam last month, locals in Oroville, California, are considering a move into "dark tourism."

Pam Bulahan I had heard the same folks who did the Oroville Dam worked on (and not finished) the levee that later broke June 21, 1972 near Spindrift Marina. So if that is the case no surprise with the shoddy-arse work with ensuing damage.

California is shattering solar records. This bill could take renewable energy to the next level.

Solar and wind farms can't get California to 100% clean energy on their own. Batteries could be part of the solution.

' Up in Sacramento, the Democrat-controlled state Senate is trying to sandbag the White House's aggressive immigration policies.

"California, in many ways, is out of control," Trump declared last month, and Californians fired back with data points. The state is the world's sixth-largest economy, ahead of France! The state has the most manufacturing jobs in the nation, and the most venture-capital funding per capita! It is a national generator of utopia (Silicon Valley) and nostalgia (Disneyland)! The state produces 99.99 percent of the country's artichokes!

In 2015, the U.S. gross domestic product grew 2.4 percent. California's grew 4.1 percent. The state is destiny made manifest, and the rest of the country is always trying to catch up.'

This is California in the era of Trump

In a state born of ambition and adventure, the latest frontier is resistance.

DoD was conducting an All Service briefing and the leader posed this question:

"What would you do if you found a scorpion in your tent?"

A Sailor said, "I'd step on it."

A Soldier said, "I'd squash it with my boot."

A Marine said, "I'd catch it, break the stinger off, and eat it."

An Airman said, "I'd call room service and find out why there's a tent in my room!"

In case anyone was thinking that Gorsuch was a good, moderate, middle-of-the-road judicial choice - he's actually too right-wing for the likes of Roberts, Alioto and Thomas! His decision, if upheld, would have effectively stripped disabled students of the right to education.

Unanimous Supreme Court overturns a Gorsuch decision ... in the middle of his confirmation hearing

Campaign Action Neil Gorsuch's belief in reading the law as narrowly as needed to screw ordinary people reared its head again during his Supreme Court...

As we are preparing the 75th Anniversary of the event....The most popular photo of WWII- the Bataan death march might not be what you thought. The caption on this picture that was just corrected 60 years or just a decade ago. These were the survivors carrying the dead bodies of the comrades in the concentration camps after the death march. Another misconception was the captured prisoners from Corregidor were not part of the Death March. Corregidor surrendered on May 6 (month after the fall of the Bataan peninsula) and at that point the Death March was over. 'Rule of law worked in South Korea, thanks to an aggressive investigative media, a persistent show of peaceful street protests, a National Assembly which responded to its people and a court system which sought to keep the impeachment trial fair and swift. For any Korean over 30 years of age, it was a shocking change from the military dictatorships of yore.'

So how does this relate to Silicon Valley? Bigly, for those of you projecting the Korean impeachment to your own heart's desire. The impeachment is the end of the first act in what may be a three-part overhaul in South Korea. And Samsung is going to be a major player in the upcoming acts.'

Dear Chuck Berry,

When they tell you your music will live forever, you can usually be sure they're exaggerating. But Johnny B. Goode is on the Voyager interstellar records attached to NASA's Voyager spacecraft -- now two billion miles from Earth and bound for the stars. These records will last a billion years or more.

Happy 60th birthday, with our admiration for the music you have given to this world . . .

It's advantages lie in ag tech and biotech as UCD is the nation's top school in agriculture and animal science, and has good medical research chops. CSUS is good at government and public policy.

Maybe also some leverage in aerospace tech as Aerojet is based here and we once had a military aircraft maintenance center at McClellan.

'Their word for "ship", djong (Old Javanese jong), traces back to an Old Javanese 9th-century inscription; the word had entered Malay as jong by the 15th century. China's ocean-going tradition in Southeast Asia was relatively new – until the 12th century, most trade between the regions was carried in Southeast Asian vessels. Thereafter, to master southern oceans, ships built in Guangdong and Fujian were based as much on Southeast Asian traditions as on Chinese rivercraft.'

Ambon (Amboyna) was the center of Dutch clove (spice) production for centuries.

It was also the setting for John Dryden's play Amboyna, or the Cruelties of the Dutch to the English Merchants (1673) featuring the Indonesian princess Ysabinda. The latter is believed to be based on the historical person Mariam Khan, a daughter of an established Mughal court merchant who married the English trader Gabriel Towerson.

Well, one problem with using the Patrimonial Household Model (PHM) for pharaonic Egypt is the fact that the wife traditionally managed the household. Daughters and sons shared the inheritance of their parents equally. Women could inherit large estates w/o the need of a male "guardian" as was the case in Ancient Greece.

Politically, the "God's Wife of Amun," usually one of the Pharaoh's daughters played a competitive role to the Pharaoh in the religious-political system.

Small correction. She wasn't allowed at the film's premier, which was held in Georgia. She did attend the Academy Awards held at the Coconut Grove in Los Angeles. However the Grove was also segregated and the director had to call in favors to allow her to be there. She was not allowed to sit at the same table with the rest of the GWTW cast and instead was put in a corner table at the back.

Steve Godwin Well, it's possible. China is now the world leader in total renewable energy production, but that's still only 25% of their total output. And even if they used coal-fired power, the pollution will be centralized rather than being delivered all over the city.
